Commencement week at the Wisconsin State university began Sunday with a baccalaureate sermon preached by President John Bascom, whose discourse was on "Hero worship," citing Napoleon I. as the most illustrious subject of such worship. His text was 2 Sam., xxi: 6: "So Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel."

Chicago democracy is a good deal exercised over the fact that Joseph O. Mackin's name is attached to a call just issued for the primaries to be held next Saturday evening. Any political party ought to feel proud of a representative who possesses the ability to acquire notoriety as speedily as Mackin has done. He ought to be promoted from secretary to the office of president of the city committee.

Governor Rusk has appointed Mr. George Raymer to a position on the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Raymer graduated from the University in 1871, and is now one of the editors and proprietors of the Madison Democrat. If Governor Rusk had searched the ranks of the Wisconsin, an democrat from one end to the other he could not have found a more worthy gentleman for that position. He takes Colonel Vilas's place on the board.

The latest phase of the Maxwell-Preller murder in St. Louis hotel is at least interesting. A dispatch from St. Louis states that James F. Brady, the St. Louis agent of Cook's Tourist company, in England, has received instructions to investigate the Maxwell-Preller murder at the Southern hotel last April, and to find out if possible if the body found was not a medical college subject instead of Preller's body. The letter to Mr. Brady states that Preller, before leaving England, had his life insured in Cook's company for a large amount. Exactly how much it is not known here, but is supposed to be $20,000, and that Preller's relatives are very anxious to get the money, and that the company refuse to pay it, believing that a thorough investigation will show that Preller is still alive, and that the hotel trunk scheme was a hoax, and the result of a conspiracy between Preller and Maxwell.

So it seems that Morrison will introduce another tariff bill in congress at the next session. This will be in full accord with the spirit of the high tariff democrats and will again put the democracy in hot water and the country in a state of unrest and anxiety. It is Morrison's disposition to get up all the row he can on the tariff question. He is a rabid free-trader and in never in his element unless fighting protection. In this way he has done much mischief to business and has thrown the democratic party in congress in many embarrassing positions. It is not strange that Morrison has decided to take this course. The Gazette predicted two months ago that he would introduce another tariff bill, but the Madison Democrat took the Gazette to task for presuming to intimate that Mr. Morrison would be so unpolitic as to get up another wrangle in the house on the question of tariff. But the Democrat's own column now contains a dispatch to the effect that Mr. Morrison, who is in Washington, was interviewed and that he stated positively that he would introduce another tariff bill when congress met in December.

Very many of the democrats who are seeking positions at the hands of the administration are ridiculously unreasonable in the view they take of the president's power to appoint applicants to office. They don't consider the fact that there are still nearly one hundred thousand offices to be filled by democrats if democrats are to fill them at all, and it is utterly impossible to operate the office guillotine so rapidly that all these one hundred thousand republicans can be decapitated in a week or a month. One southern congressman, who is disgusted with the mockery of the administration in regard to its civil service reform, this congressmen bemoans about the hypocritical professions of the administration, and says, in disgust, that it takes weeks to do what ought to be done in a hour. He said in an interview in Washington the other day: "When I came here I expected to get matters fixed in a few days. I can see plainly that it will take weeks, even if I get them at all. I went to one of the departments with a list of half a dozen men that I wanted put in certain places. Under the former administration if a republican wanted a half dozen or a dozen men appointed to places all he had to do was simply to hand in his list, and it was done. But it is different now. When I exhibited my list and told what I wanted, the head of the department asked me how I expected to get rid of the men who are already in the offices. 'Put them out,' I said, 'they are republicans.' 'Ah, but that isn't enough,' he replied. 'If you want to get them out you must do so by the proper methods.' I asked, 'Well,' he said, 'you must prefer some sort of charges against them,' show that they are offensive politicians, or that they are incompetent or that they are not the proper persons for the places. We must have some excuse for removing them, more than the mere fact that they are republicans.' So that means a delay of weeks. I have either to go back home and drum up some sort of charges against them, or send to the men who want their places and have them work up cases. In either method it means indefinite delay." It is this intense greed for office that influenced Colonel Vilas to issue his confidential circular, whereby the business of preferring boxes and wholesale charges against republicans could be expected.

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, the young statesman of New York city, who was so prominent in the republican national Reception of the General and Mrs. Logan

—A Slight Upset.

Portland, Me., June 23.—Gen. and Mrs. Logan were greeted by a crowd of about 8,000 persons on their arrival here Monday evening. After the greetings Past 33 delegation of Massachusetts, was accepted as an escort, and the distinguished guests were taken to Congressman Foss's residence, being enthusiastically cheered on route. National Commander Keantz and staff arrived at 5 p. m., and were escorted to the Fairmont hotel. The Michigan party, the first department to arrive, consists of Department Commander Lough and staff, four post commanders, three delegates, Governor Alonzo J. C. Garfield, and his wife, a Michigan man and many ladies. A special train on the way from Des Moines, Iowa, it is supposed that some 6,000 Iowa people will be there. If the crowd now here is large, the crowd expected is enormous. The best of order prevails.

There is considerable feeling among the veterans over a notice of the Law and Order league, that they propose to seize any contingent of liquor brought into the city by Grand Army men. As there are a number of such assignments on the way, and the soldiers declare they will resist their seizure, the right to remain to be a question.

THE QUEEN SUCCEEDS.

VICTORIA'S EFFORTS PUT AN END TO THE BRITISH CRISIS.

Salisbury Accepts Office and Names His Cabinet—Gladstone Agrees Not to Use a Giant's Strength Like a Giant.

London, June 22.—As a result of the queen's efforts the majority of Salisbury has resolved to accept Mr. Gladstone's promise to use his influence with the Liberals to prevent a vicious opposition. The Daily News, in an editorial, says that no specific pledges have been given, but that a general promise has been offered that the giant's strength of opposition shall not be used like a giant. Mr. Gladstone has made a promise to Lord Salisbury to give the new government as much time as possible during the session, that the leaders have arranged to make an effort to carry the Welsh intermediate education bill, the Austrian confederation bill, the Irish national education bill, and the minister-for-Scotland bill. Lord Salisbury, again, has agreed to include the Scotch crofters' bill. The redistribution-of-seats bill will be finished before night.

The following is an authentic list of the new cabinet:

Prime Minister and Secretary for Foreign Affairs—The Marquess of Salisbury.

First Lord of the Treasury—Sir Stafford Northcote.

Chancellor of the Exchequer—Sir Michael E. Hicks-Beach.

Lord High Chancellor—Sir Hardinge Gifford.

Lord President of the Council—Viscount Cranbrook.

Lord of the Privy Seal—The earl of Harrowby.

Secretary for the Home Department—Sir Richard Ashton Cross.

Secretary for the Colonial Department—Colonel Sir Charles Stanley.

Secretary for War—The Rt. Hon. William Henry Smith.

Secretary of State for India—Lord Randolph Churchill.

First Lord of the Admiralty—Lord George Hamilton.

President of the Local Government Board—Arthur James Balfour.

President of the Board of Trade—The Duke of Richmond and Gordon.

Vice President of the Council—The Hon. Edward Stanhope.

Lord Lieutenant of Ireland—The earl of Cavan.

Lord Chancellor of Ireland—Taoiseach Hon. Edward Gibson.

The minor offices have not yet been filled.

The Times, in an editorial, says it thinks that Lord Salisbury's "taste to obtain decided pledges from the Liberals" weakens his position, and adds: "However, the Liberals, though perfectly able to do so at this time, might put themselves in a difficult position by defrauding the government and will probably not attempt it."

Sir Charles Dilke, in addressing a meeting of Liberals, said he was prepared to give the Conservatives all reasonable assurances.

He wished to study in Ireland a plan for the development from parishes to Welsh, Scotch and Irish bodies much of the business that parliament is now not competent to discharge, and would visit Ireland as soon as possible for that purpose.

He called for a general federalization of Ireland.

He thinks that Lord Salisbury's recent attitude savored of blith old England, and was not likely to induce the Liberals to enter into a formal compact.

The Times, in referring to Sir Charles Dilke's address says: "Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Charles Dilke may discover that there are institutions in Ireland, such as the poor law guardians and municipal councils administering public money, largely that are only provided for in existing law, and that the time has come for the passing of new laws, which it is proposed to sweep summarily away. The Conservatives must be prepared with an alternative policy to do with the changes."

Bridgets.

The hired man gives the playful male A Map. Then all is over.

The gentle creature humps its back And kicks him through the door.

(One came with horse and gaudy team And plant him by the babbling stream.)

The servant takes the horsehome And pours it on the fire;

She makes her busto for a robe, Her oil can for a lyre.

(I came among scenes and still, And find her off beside the mill.)

The maid drinks the lemonade, And tops it with ice-cream;

(She sees St. Peter turn the gates Across dark Jordan's stream.

(I lay her by the babbling mill, And send her relatives the bill.)

—The Undertaker, in St. Louis Whig.

—Pleasant weather for the races.

A large number of sporting men are in the city attending the races.

—Oriental Lodge No. 22, K. of P., assembled in Castle hall this evening.

—Janesville City Lodge No. 90, I. O. O. F., occupied Old Fellow's hall this evening.

—Mr. R. L. Colvin, the new proprietor of the "Boston Bakery," has just completed a thorough overhauling of that establishment. He has put in one of the celebrated "Witcomb coke ovens," said to be the best oven in use, and has caused to do the baking for the entire city in a manner excelled by none. The baking department is in charge of Mr. James Henderson, one of the best bakers in the country. Mr. Colvin has expended considerable money in refitting the establishment, and now has one of the best arranged bakeries to be found. In connection with the bakery he will keep a full line of all fancy groceries, fruits in season, canned goods, choice teas, coffees, etc., which he will supply to his customers at the lowest rates such good" can be procured. When in want of choice goods call at the "Boston Bakery" on North Main street, and you will find just what you want. Home-made bread is one of the latest specialties of this bakery.

—Mr. John H. Fryer, proprietor of the "Bower House," of Whitewater, is in the city to-day.

—Miss Sarah Johnson, of Minneapolis, is the guest of Miss Alice Guernsey, South Main street, third ward.

—Mr. John Brown has the contract for digging the cellars of the Mackin block on West Milwaukee street.

—Fourth of July committee meet this evening at the common council chamber. A full attendance is requested.

—An exchange was made a few days since through Gowday Bros. agency, which resulted in three houses changing hands and one of them twice.

—A special convention of Janesville Chapter No. 5, will be held this evening at the Masonic hall. Work is in the R. A. M. A full attendance is requested.

—Mrs. John Watson went to Webster City, Iowa, to-day intending to spend a few weeks visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Will King, of that place.

—Street Commissioner Cunningham, under the directions of Alds. Burnham and Judd, is giving the streets of the second ward a thorough cleaning.

—The finance committee of the Fourth of July celebration has been canvassing for funds to pay for the celebration, and we understand they have been quite successful.

—Dr. J. H. Warren and his two daughters started to-day for a visit among their friends in Wisner, Nebraska. They expect to spend most of the summer in that pleasant part of the country.

—Most of the store fronts which have heretofore been painted a black or some dark color, are now receiving a coat of red paint, and in some instances a variety of colors is being added, making a somewhat changed appearance in the buildings.

—Constable J. Ryan, of the fourth ward, served all the papers yesterday issued by Justice Wickham in the inquest over the remains of the late Josiah Anderson.

—Constable Ryan is attending right to business, and is holding himself in readiness to attend to all official business entrusted to him.

—Two native Turks, clothed in their Oriental costumes, are in the city, the first, we believe, that ever visited Janesville outside of a traveling show. These dusky specimens of the Ottoman empire are engaged in peddling beads and little trinkets, and both speak the English language.

—Last evening we made an unexpected blunder in announcing the funerals of the late Josiah Anderson and John Golden, Sr. The funeral of Mr. Golden should have been announced for yesterday morning at eight o'clock, and that of Mr. Anderson at three o'clock this afternoon.

—This morning a burglar tumbled out of the third story window of the Main street front of the Myers house. The cage was picked up and found to be in a very bad condition, all the cage furniture being broken, and among the debris a dead body was discovered—that of a fine cavy, which had been killed in the raid.

—The case of Stephen Bradford against the Ripon Lumber and Manufacturing company, was decided by Judge Bennett this morning, being found for the defendant. That of Russell against the Janesville Pickle Co., is now being tried and will probably last some time. The attorney in the case are A. Hyatt Smith and Jas. A. Hyatt Smith and William Street for the plaintiff, and William Rager for the defendant.

—The Chicago &amp; Northwestern railway company will run a special train from this city to Watertown on Sunday next to accommodate all those who wish to attend the Scengerfest in that city. The train will leave Janesville about eight o'clock in the morning, returning in the evening. Fare for the round trip will be $1.00. For further particulars inquire of P. F. Sharpen and Co's drug store.

Large two-story house, barn and two good lots, centrally located for $1,200.
